NJ Is...

I am Nicole Jones, founder of NJ Business Management Consultant Corporation. My professional experience over the past 15 years has equipped me with the tools that are necessary to help companies maximize profits, gain visibility, become established, sustain longevity and grow. I am obtaining my Bachelor of Arts degree in Business Management and am geared up to complete my Masters degree at Monroe College, both with a minor in Marketing.

My expertise includes conflict resolution, team building, crisis management, and issues relating to growth and expansion. My collaborative leadership skills enable me to empower leaders and equip staff with the tools that they need to succeed, foster positive relationships, and create company loyalty. I adapt a collaborative mindset with each client so that a level of comfort is felt from the start. I consider myself a team player and I am excited to cultivate existing partnerships and nurture future relationships.

Having worked in the corporate setting for the past 15 years, I understand both sides of the business realm. I am dedicated to learning and understanding my client's bottom line, so that they can increase profits.

Let me help you create a winning first impression with a compelling pitch deck, business plan, and financial forecast. I've worked with hundreds of small and mid-size businesses including the City of New York and Women on the Rise. My clients have shaped my entrepreneurial spirit, making me the person perfect for your business needs. I strive for excellence, while achieving results.
